Vocabulary
for the College Bound
Book D

Prestwick House, Inc.
"Everything for the English Classroom!"
P. O. Box 658
Clayton, DE 19938
1-800-932-4593
www.prestwickhouse.com

ISBN 978-1-58049-263-8

Copyright © 1999 by Prestwick House, Inc.
All rights reserved. No portion may be reproduced without permission in writing from the publisher. Revised November, 2007
Strategies for Completing Activities

Analogies

While analogies can be a bit confusing when first seen, analogies can be viewed as challenging mind games once the logic of the question is understood. Here is the strategy we recommend.

1. Change the symbols into words.

Pistol : Weapon :: Rose :

   A pistol is to a weapon as a rose is to a ______________.

2. Determine the relationship in the first set and put it in a sentence.

   A pistol is one kind of a weapon.

3. Complete the second part.

   A pistol is one kind of a weapon; therefore, a rose is one kind of flower.

Analogies can be of many different types, but the most common types are the following:

- synonyms
  - calm : peaceful :: anger : ire
- opposites
  - praise : criticize :: hovel : mansion
- degree
  - warm : hot :: grin : laugh
- person : object
  - engineer : train :: pilot : airplane
- function
  - car : garage :: airplane : hangar
- order
  - dusk : night :: dawn : day
- action : object
  - hoe : garden :: bake : cake
- part : whole
  - leg : body :: stanza : poem

While it is not important that you verbalize the type of analogy you are working on, you may, if you get stuck on one, want to consider the type in order to determine the relationship between the words.

Roots, Prefixes, and Suffixes

To the person interested in words, a knowledge of roots, prefixes, and suffixes turns each new, unfamiliar word into a puzzle. And while it is a sure and lifelong way to build your vocabulary, there are two points to keep in mind.

1. Some words evolved through usage so that today’s definitions are different from what you might have inferred from an examination of their roots and/or prefixes. For example, the word abstruse contains the prefix “ab” (away) and the root “trudere” (to thrust) and literally means “to thrust away,” but today the word is used to describe something that is “hard to understand.”
2. Occasionally, you may go wrong on a root. For example, knowing that the root “vin” means to conquer, you would be correct in concluding that the word invincible means not able to be conquered; but if you tried to apply that root meaning to the word vindictive or vindicate, you would miss the mark. So, in analyzing an unfamiliar word, if your inferred meaning doesn’t fit the context, check for other possible roots than the one you first assumed.

These warnings notwithstanding, a knowledge of roots and prefixes is the one best way to build a strong, vital vocabulary.

Reading Comprehension

Reading questions generally fall into several types.

1. Identifying the main idea of the topic or the author’s purpose. In short, the question asks, “What is this selection about?”

   In some paragraphs this is easy to spot because there are one or two ideas that leap from the paragraph. In some selections, however, this may be much more difficult when there are convoluted sentences with clauses embedded within clauses. It also may be difficult in those selections in which there are inverted sentences (a sentence with the subject at the end of the sentence) or elliptical sentences (a sentence in which a word is left out). All of these obstacles, however, can be overcome if readers take one sentence at a time and recast it in their own words. Consider the following sentence:

   "These writers either jot down their thoughts bit by bit, in short, ambiguous, and paradoxical sentences, which apparently mean much more than they say—of this kind of writing Schelling’s treatises on natural philosophy are a splendid instance; or else they hold forth with a deluge of words and the most intolerable diffusiveness, as though no end of fuss were necessary to make the reader understand the deep meaning of their sentences, whereas it is some quite simple if not actually trivial idea, examples of which may be found in plenty in the popular works of Fichte, and the philosophical manuals of a hundred other miserable dunces."

   But if we edit out some of the words, the main point of this sentence is obvious.

   "These writers either jot down their thoughts bit by bit, in short sentences which apparently mean much more than they say or else they hold forth with a deluge of words as though [it] were necessary to make the reader understand the deep meaning of their sentences, whereas it is [a] simple if not actually trivial idea."
While the previous sentence needs only deletions to make it clear, this next one requires major recasting and additions; that is, it must be read carefully and put into the reader’s own words.

Some in their discourse desire rather commendation of wit, in being able to hold all arguments, than of judgment, in discerning what is true; as if it were a praise to know what might be said, and not what should be thought.

After studying it, a reader might recast the sentence as follows:

In their conversations, some people would rather win praise for their wit or style of saying something rather than win praise for their ability to judge between what is true or false—as if it were better to sound good regardless of the quality of thought.

2. Identifying the stated or inferred meaning. Simply, what is the author stating or suggesting?

3. Identifying the tone or mood of the selection or the author’s feeling.

To answer this type of question, look closely at individual words and their connotations. For example, if an author describes one person as stubborn and another as firm, it tells the reader something of the author’s feelings. In the same manner, if the author uses many words with harsh, negative connotations, he is conveying one mood; but if he uses words with milder, negative connotations, he may be striving for quite another mood.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pronunciation Guide</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>å  pat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ä  aid, fey, pay</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>â  air, care, wear</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ä  father</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>b  bib</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ch church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>d  deed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>è  pet, pleasure</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ê  be, bee, easy, leisure</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>f  fast, fife, off, phase, rough</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>g  gag</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>h  hat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hw which</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ī  pit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ī  by, guy, pie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ī  dear, deer, fierce, mere</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>j  judge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ou cow, out</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>öö  took</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lesson One

1. abjure (əb j Mauritius’) verb to renounce
   The defendant abjured his former illegal activities and consequently received a lighter sentence.
   syn: recant, retract  ant: pledge

2. anomaly (ə nɔ́m’ə lə) noun deviation from the norm; odd or peculiar occurrence
   The aggressive drill sergeant’s interest in romantic poetry was considered an anomaly by his colleagues.
   syn: abnormality, irregularity  ant: norm

3. equanimity (ě kwə nəm’ ĭ tə) noun stability, calmness
   Oddly enough, the plaintiff recounted the story of her attack with perfect equanimity.
   syn: composure, sangfroid  ant: perturbation

4. estrange (ĭ străn’j) verb to alienate
   Jill’s overbearing mother-in-law estranged Jill from her husband.
   syn: disunite  ant: reconcile

5. flay (flə) verb to whip; to remove skin
   Many years ago, prisoners were sometimes tortured, then flayed alive by their captors.
   syn: skin

6. florid (flôr’ ēd) adjective rosy-colored, reddish
   Her face was florid after her morning five-mile run.
   syn: ruddy  ant: pale, wan

7. interminable (ĭn tər’ mə nə bəl) adjective tiresome and long
   In grade school, the last few days before a holiday vacation always seemed interminable.
   syn: unending, continuing

8. lugubrious (ləū gō´ brē əs) adjective mournful, gloomy
   The comic tone of the play was undermined by the lugubrious funeral scene.
   syn: sorrowful  ant: joyful

9. nondescript (nən´ di skript´) adjective having no individuality Inmates complain that each day in prison is uneventful, ordinary, and nondescript.
   syn: amorphous  ant: unusual

10. propitious (prō pish´ as) adjective favorable; auspicious
    Discovering the old manifest for the sunken Spanish galleon proved propitious since it also showed the location of the gold.
    syn: promising  ant: adverse
11. rife (rif) adjective abundant, prevalent
   Tense hostage situations are becoming more and more rife in modern society.
   syn: dominant, full  ant: scarce, rare

12. truncate (trúŋ’ kát) verb to shorten
   The candidate truncated his campaign because of a family illness.
   syn: abridged, abbreviated  ant: lengthened

13. ubiquitous (yōō bık’ wĭ təs) adjective occurring everywhere; omnipresent
   It was a horrible camping trip; the mosquitoes were ubiquitous and hungry.
   syn: universal

14. vernacular (vər nāk´yə lər) noun everyday language
   Use of slang, profanity, or vernacular is prohibited in scholarly papers.
   syn: dialect

15. zealous (zēl´əs) adjective fervent; fanatical
   The shaman was zealous about guarding his secret cures from outsiders.
   syn: passionate, enthusiastic  ant: apathetic

Exercise I — Words in Context

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>florid</th>
<th>abjure</th>
<th>flayed</th>
<th>equanimity</th>
<th>propitious</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

A. The Pope spoke with __________ to worshipper and atheist alike.

B. At the __________ moment, an umbrella was brought to shade the __________ , sleeping tourist.

C. In ancient times priests were forced to __________ their beliefs to avoid being __________ alive.

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>truncated</th>
<th>nondescript</th>
<th>lugubrious</th>
<th>rife</th>
<th>interminable</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

D. The spy’s wait for his contact seemed __________ to him, especially since he was trying to appear __________ and ordinary.

E. The politician’s __________ speech was __________ after booing by protesters.

F. The plains of the Western United States had long been __________ with buffalo.
From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

vernacular  ubiquitous  zealous  estranged  anomaly

G. The __________ couple had no kind words for each other.

H. General Eisenhower was __________ in his planning in order to foresee any __________ the enemy might put in his way.

I. Slang and __________ should be avoided in research papers; however, both seem nearly _____ _____ in poor writers’ styles.

Exercise II — Inferences

Choose the answer that best suits the situation.

1. Which would seem interminable?
   A. awaiting test results
   B. a kite in the wind
   C. building a doghouse
   D. eating supper

2. A florid person is
   A. fast.
   B. intelligent, nearly a genius.
   C. tired from running.
   D. red-faced.

3. An anomaly would most likely be found in a
   A. map of America.
   B. difficult puzzle.
   C. test score.
   D. blueprint for a home.

Exercise III—Analogies

Complete the analogy by choosing the most appropriate word.

1. ascribe : assign ::
   A. delineate : depict
   B. delude: promise
   C. challenge : agree
   D. avian : theorem

2. trite : cliche ::
   A. unnecessary : superfluous
   B. redundant : accomplishment
   C. comparative : diffident
   D. lyrical : sonnet

3. laborious : facile ::
   A. ease : facilitate
   B. standard : ultimate
   C. television : medium
   D. contemptuous : respectful
Exercise IV—Reading Comprehension

Read the selection and answer the questions.

Many a traveller came out of his way to see me and the inside of my house, and, as an excuse for calling, asked for a glass of water. I told them that I drank at the pond, and pointed thither, offering to lend them a dipper. Far off as I lived, I was not exempted from that annual visitation which occurs, methinks, about the first of April, when every body is on the move; and I had my share of good luck, though there were some curious specimens among my visitors. Half-witted men from the almshouse and elsewhere came to see me; but I endeavored to make them exercise all the wit they had, and make their confessions to me; in such cases making wit the theme of our conversation; and so was compensated. Indeed I found some of them to be wiser than the so called overseers of the poor and selectmen of the town, and thought it was time that the tables were turned. With respect to wit, I learned that there was not much difference between the half and the whole. One day, in particular, an inoffensive, simple-minded pauper, whom with others I had often seen used as fencing stuff, standing or sitting on a bushel in the fields to keep cattle and himself from straying, visited me, and expressed a wish to live as I did. He told me, with the utmost simplicity and truth, quite superior, or rather inferior, to any thing that is called humility, that he was “deficient in intellect.” These were his words. The Lord had made him so, yet he supposed the Lord cared as much for him as for another. “I have always been so,” said he, “from my childhood; I never had much mind; I was not like other children; I am weak in the head. It was the Lord’s will, I suppose.” And there he was to prove the truth of his words. He was a metaphysical puzzle to me. I have rarely met a fellow-man on such promising ground,—it was so simple and sincere and so true all that he said. And, true enough, in proportion as he appeared to humble himself was he exalted. I did not know at first but it was the result of a wise policy. It seemed that from such a basis of truth and frankness as the poor weak-headed pauper had laid, our intercourse might go forward to something better than the intercourse of sages.

Henry David Thoreau

1. The author states that the simple people
   A. had little to offer.
   B. may be superior to the sage.
   C. confessed to him, as if in a church.
   D. proved to be no puzzle to him.
   E. showed great differences between them and other townspeople.

2. The word “inferior” refers to the author’s feelings regarding his visitor’s
   A. intellect.
   B. humility.
   C. poverty.
   D. honesty.
   E. curiosity.

3. During the beginning of April, the author
   A. had many visitors desiring water.
   B. decided to engage the simple-minded in intellectual games.
   C. met with various “overseers.”
   D. learned very little from his visitors.
   E. looked forward to peace and quiet.

4. The best title for this work might be
   A. The Lord’s Will.
   B. With Respect to Wit.
   C. Intellect vs. Stupidity.
   D. Unexpected Understandings.
   E. New England’s Poor.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Lesson Two</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1. arable (ərˈæ bəl) adjective fit for cultivation (land)
Death Valley and the Badlands are both characterized by their lack of arable soil.
syn: fertile
ant: parched |
| 2. brigand (brɪɡˈænd) noun a robber or bandit
The wealthy stagecoach passengers kept a nervous watch for brigands when traveling through the dark forest. |
| 3. carte blanche (kärt´ blänch´) noun authority with no bounds
The dictator’s aide was given carte blanche to order the assassination of a well-known protester. |
| 4. consommé (kŏnˈsə mä´) noun clear soup
The hostess served consommé and salad for the first two courses of the dinner. |
| 5. contemptuous (kən tɛmp´ chō o ə) adjective scornful, haughty
The contemptuous bank loan officer treated the poorly dressed applicants rudely.
syn: insulting, derisive
ant: humble |
| 6. cosmopolitan (kəz´mə pɔ l ɪ tn) adjective worldly, sophisticated
The vast number and large variety of stickers on his luggage indicated that he was an experienced, cosmopolitan traveler.
syn: cultured, urbane
ant: provincial |
| 7. discerning (dɪ sɜr′ nɪŋ) adjective distinguishing differences, detecting
The art critic’s discerning eye could tell a real Picasso from a forgery in an instant.
syn: perceptive |
| 8. donnybrook (dən′i brəık´) noun fight, uproar
European soccer games, when the home team loses, are frequently followed by donnybrooks involving thousands of fans.
syn: brawl |
| 9. incantation (ɪnˈkænt ə shən) noun charm; recited magical spell
The sorceress uttered a long incantation as she created the magic potion. |
| 10. interlocutor (ɪnˈtər ə lok´ yə tər) noun questioner; an on-stage speaker
The delusional man wandered down the street, conversing with some invisible interlocutor. |
| 11. metamorphosis (mɛt ə mɔr´ fə sisis) noun transformation or dramatic change
The metamorphosis from child to adult was complete as soon as Li became the Emperor of China at age seven.
syn: mutation |
12. nomenclature (nəˈmən kləˈchər) noun naming system in an art or science
   We had to learn the Latin nomenclature for the common prescription medicines.
   syn: classification

13. serendipity (sərˈəndəpˈtē) noun a fortunate discovery made by accident
   Karen mused that it was only through much serendipity that she found her long-lost wedding ring while mowing the grass.

14. stentorian (stənˈtərēən) adjective extremely loud
   The Civil War general issued a stentorian “Charge!” loud enough for everyone to hear.
   syn: earsplitting  ant: quiet, silent

15. vestige (vēsˈtij) noun trace; evidence
   Invading armies destroyed the final vestiges of resistance overnight.
   syn: fragment, remnant

Exercise I — Words in Context

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

interlocutors  brigand  nomenclature  carte blanche  discerning

A. The young _________ robbed all passengers indiscriminately, as if he had _________ from the government.

B. The press corps served as _________________ during the political debates.

C. The biology professor was extremely _________ in using the proper Latin _________ for each insect.

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

stentorian  donnybrook  contemptuous  consommé  vestiges

D. An ugly _________ broke out after the football game.

E. _________ was often served as a first course, but the restaurant reviewer was frequently _________ of new restaurants.

F. The enraged elephant issued a _________ trumpeting, which removed the last _________ of the hunter’s bravery.
From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

metamorphosis  arable  incantation  cosmopolitan  serendipity

G. Many _______ socialites have made the _______ from wallflowers to life of the party.

H. It seemed pure _______ to find the tribal shaman just beginning the _______ to cure an ill villager.

I. All the _______ land had been seized by the king for his own use.

Exercise II — Inferences

Choose the answer that best suits the situation.

1. Which would be most likely to cause a donnybrook?
   A. an automobile purchase
   B. a family reunion
   C. a close football game
   D. a philosophical argument

2. Who or what is more contemptuous of authority?
   A. a career criminal
   B. birds awakening you from sleep
   C. a novel by Melville
   D. a doctor

3. An interlocutor would most likely be found in a
   A. hospital.
   B. debate.
   C. field.
   D. playground.

Exercise III—Analogies

Complete the analogy by choosing the most appropriate word.

1. lineage : genealogy ::
   A. stream : torrent
   B. visual : auditory
   C. biology : botany
   D. aegis : sponsorship

2. malady : expiration ::
   A. fallacy : stupidity
   B. hypothesis : conclusion
   C. courage : battle
   D. correlation : finality

3. archaic : corset ::
   A. telegraph : obsolete
   B. consensual : agreement
   C. punitive : fine
   D. strident : speech
Exercise IV—Reading Comprehension

Read the selection and answer the questions.

I heartily accept the motto,— “that government is best which governs least;” and I should like to see it acted up to more rapidly and systematically. Carried out, it finally amounts to this, which also I believe,— “That government is best which governs not at all;” and when men are prepared for it, that will be the kind of government which they will have. Government is at best but an expedient; but most governments are usually, and all governments are sometimes, inexpedient. The objections which have been brought against a standing army, and they are many and weighty, and deserve to prevail, may also at last be brought against a standing government. The standing army is only an arm of the standing government. The government itself, which is only the mode which the people have chosen to execute their will, is equally liable to be abused and perverted before the people can act through it.

Governments show thus how successfully men can be imposed on, even impose on themselves, for their own advantage. It is excellent, we must all allow; yet this government never of itself furthered any enterprise, but by the alacrity with which it got out of its way. It does not keep the country free. It does not settle the West. It does not educate….

After all, the practical reason why, when the power is once in the hands of the people, a majority are permitted, and for a long period continue, to rule, is not because they are most likely to be in the right, nor because this seems fairest to the minority, but because they are physically the strongest. But a government in which the majority rule in all cases cannot be based on justice, even as far as men understand it. Must the citizen ever for a moment, or in the least degree, resign his conscience to the legislator? Why has every man a conscience, then? I think that we should be men first, and subjects afterward. It is not desirable to cultivate a respect for the law so much as for the right. The only obligation which I have a right to assume, is to do at any time what I think right.

Henry David Thoreau

1. In your own words, express the main idea of this selection.
2. What are the best meanings for these two words used by the author: expedient and allow.
   A. means and permit
   B. advantage and permit
   C. suitability and acknowledge
   D. resource and agree
   E. resource and let
3. According to Thoreau, citizens should
   A. give up their conscience for the government.
   B. respect what is right, not laws.
   C. believe that no government is better than any government.
   D. both A and B are correct.
   E. both B and C are correct.
4. A standing army, according to the author,
   A. is a necessary evil.
   B. is superior to a bad government.
   C. can only settle the West and keep the country free.
   D. reflects the will of the majority.
   E. exists as a tool of the standing government.
Lesson Three

1. abstemious (āb stēˈ mē əs) adjective eating and drinking moderately John’s doctor suggested he lead a more abstemious lifestyle after years of indulging in gourmet food.
   syn: temperate
   ant: gluttonous

2. archaic (ār kāˈ ĩk) adjective no longer current or applicable; antiquated
   Her father’s archaic ideas about curfews often frustrated Jen when she wanted to stay out late.
   syn: old fashioned
   ant: in vogue

3. dulcet (dūlˈ sēt) adjective melodious, pleasant to hear
   The opera singer’s dulcet voice earned her a prominent place in the upcoming production.
   syn: sweet-sounding
   ant: cacophonous

4. expurgate (ěkˈ spar gātˈ) verb to remove objectionable words from
   During the early part of the twentieth century, censors felt it was necessary to expurgate words from novels because of supposed obscenities.
   syn: expunge

5. idyllic (ī dīlˈ īk) adjective carefree, simple; nearly perfect
   Our summer picnic in the country was idyllic until a sudden storm ruined the day.
   syn: peaceful

6. iniquity (ī nīkˈ wī tē) noun sin; a wicked or evil act
   He heartily repented his iniquity when he faced a lifelong prison sentence.
   syn: crime

7. lithe (līth) adjective supple; graceful in motion
   The gymnast’s lithe movements made her difficult routine look easy.
   syn: nimble
   ant: stiff, awkward

8. patronizing (pāˈ trō nīzˈ ĕng) adj. to treat in a condescending manner, talk down to Despite his patronizing treatment of his employees, the foreman was still well liked.

9. pellucid (pō lōōˈ sīd) adjective transparent; clear
   In order to make the thesis more pellucid, I rewrote the confusing paragraph.
   ant: obscure, opaque

10. perspicacious (pūrˈ spī kāˈ shas) adjective keen, mentally sharp
    One perspicacious comment after another by an expert at blackjack still could not help me win at the casino.
    syn: shrewd, astute ant: dull
11. relegate (rēˈlāgˈeɪt) verb to assign
   Slaves were relegated to the worst possible housing and were often abused.
   syn: consign, commit

12. scapegoat (skāpˈ gōtˈ) noun one who bears the blame for an offense
   Since he was often absent, Andy was the perfect candidate for the office scapegoat.

13. talisman (tālˈ is mən) noun magical charm for protection Rabbit’s feet, horseshoes, and four-leaf clovers are considered lucky talismans.
   syn: amulet

14. usurp (yōŏ sūrpˈ) verb to take over; to seize power
   While the king was ill, his ministers attempted a coup to usurp his power.
   syn: seize
   ant: abdicate

15. vacillate (vāsˈ ə latˈ) verb waver; to sway indecisively
   For years Bobby vacillated between liking one band and then another.
   syn: hesitate
   ant: to be resolute

---

Exercise I — Words in Context

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>pellucid</th>
<th>vacillate</th>
<th>dulcet</th>
<th>expurgate</th>
<th>archaic</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

A. The English professor was hard at work trying to ________ words which were not to be in the new dictionary, beginning with the ________ ones.

B. The police easily saw through the suspect’s ________ alibi when his story started to ________ in minor details.

C. The sounds of the choir singing during services seemed sweet and ________.

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>relegated</th>
<th>patronizing</th>
<th>iniquity</th>
<th>abstemious</th>
<th>lithe</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

D. Each and every ________ was seized upon by the ________ evangelist as evidence of his congregation’s wrongdoings.

E. The popular athlete, muscular and ________, spoke to the overweight audience in a very ________ manner.

F. All the lesser-known paintings were ________ to the storeroom.
From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

perspicacious  idyllic  usurp  scapegoat  talisman

G. Even the young boy was _______ enough to see through the false claims the huckster made about a pretty ________.

H. John’s relationship was too ________ to continue, especially when his fiancé used him as a ________ for her own failings.

I. Every officer tried to ________ the captain’s power after he fell sick.

Exercise II — Inferences

Choose the answer that best suits the situation.

1. Which one needs to be perspicacious?
   A. a bird building a nest.
   B. a student preparing for college.
   C. a priest preparing his sermon.
   D. a wolf stalking sheep.

2. An idyllic relationship would contain which group of emotions?
   A. revenge and anger
   B. deceit and trust
   C. love and commitment
   D. detachment and distance

3. Who would be more likely to be patronizing?
   A. an athlete being admitted into the hall of fame
   B. a secretary addressing her boss
   C. a customer in an expensive jewelry store
   D. a politician wanting your vote

Exercise III— Analogies

Complete the analogy by choosing the most appropriate word.

1. appease : placate ::
   A. revile : abhor
   B. conquer : retreat
   C. bequeath : besmirch
   D. provoke : promote

2. aloof : gregarious ::
   A. avaricious : generous
   B. loquacious : voluble
   C. boorish : outcast
   D. paradoxical : methodical

3. animosity : abhorrence ::
   A. bookishness : learned
   B. antipathy : loathing
   C. antithesis : redundance
   D. corruption : cowardice
Exercise IV—Reading Comprehension

Read the selection and answer the questions.

For instance, there is a current impression that it is unpleasant to have to run after one’s hat. Why should it be unpleasant to the well-ordered and pious mind? Not merely because it is running, and running exhausts one. The same people run much faster in games and sports. The same people run much more eagerly after an uninteresting little leather ball than they will after a nice silk hat. There is an idea that it is humiliating to run after one’s hat, and when people say it is humiliating they mean that it is comic. It certainly is comic; but man is a very comic creature, and most of the things he does are comic—eating, for instance. And the most comic things of all are exactly the things that are most worth doing—such as loving one’s wife. A man running after a hat is not half so ridiculous as a man running after a wife.

Now a man could, if he felt rightly in the matter, run after his hat with the manliest ardor and the most sacred joy. He might regard himself as a jolly huntsman pursuing a wild animal, for certainly no animal could be wilder. In fact, I am inclined to believe that hat-hunting on windy days will be the sport of the upper classes in the future. When last I saw an old gentleman running after his hat in Hyde Park, I told him that a heart so benevolent as his ought to be filled with peace and thanks at the thought of how much unaffected pleasure his every gesture and bodily attitude were at that moment giving to the crowd.

G. K. Chesterton

1. The author’s tone in this essay can be described as
   A. sarcastic and cynical.
   B. informative.
   C. dry and witty.
   D. egalitarian.
   E. argumentative and persuasive.

2. Man is most comical when
   A. he is pursuing victory.
   B. he is playing games.
   C. he is doing things most worth doing.
   D. he is hunting.
   E. he is in Hyde Park.

3. The author uses running after a hat and running after a leather ball as examples of
   A. paradox.
   B. dichotomy.
   C. dilemma.
   D. hyperbole.
   E. incongruity.
1. acme (āk´ mē) noun  the highest point
   After finally achieving a partnership in her law firm, Karen felt her career had reached its acme
   syn: zenith, pinnacle  ant: nadir

2. apocryphal (ə pŏk´ rə fäl) adjective  of doubtful origin; fictitious Although Chris claimed that his uncle had, in a previous life, been Napoleon, the dubious evidence indicated that the story was apocryphal.
   syn: spurious, false, erroneous  ant: truthful

3. catharsis (kə thär´ sıs) noun  an extremely emotional experience
   When he learned of his mother’s illness, the criminal underwent a catharsis and changed his evil ways.

4. desiccate (dĕs´ ĕ kät´) verb  to dry up completely
   They desiccate flowers and send them around the world.

5. dissipate (dĭs´ ĕ pät´) verb  to waste; exhaust
   Before bottled oxygen was available, those who climbed Mt. Everest found that their energy dissipated too quickly because of thin air.
   syn: squander, expend

6. efficacious (ĕf´ ĕ kā´ shäs) adjective  effective; producing the desired outcome
   The shot of adrenaline was efficacious in instantly restarting the victim’s heart.
   ant: ineffective

7. ineffable (ĭn ĕf´ ə bäl) adjective  inexpressible; beyond description
   The return of our long-lost brother filled us with such ineffable joy that all we could do was cry from happiness.
   syn: unexplainable

8. intrinsic (ĭn trĭn´ sık) adjective  of or relating to the basic nature of a thing; inherent Humans have an intrinsic desire to be loved.
   syn: native, natural, instinctive  ant: extrinsic

9. inundate (ĭn´ ūn dāt´) verb  to cover with; to be overwhelmed with
   He was inundated with desperate requests for tickets to the sold-out show.
   syn: flood

10. kudos (kŏō´ dōz´) noun  praise, fame, glory
    The playwright’s successful new production won her kudos from the press.
    syn: distinction  ant: opprobrium
11. maxim (mäk’ sëm) noun fundamental principle; rule; familiar statement
   Many people feel the best maxim for peaceful living is the Golden Rule.
   syn: proverb

12. putrid (pyō’ trīd) adjective partially decayed or decomposed; having a foul smell Cold coffee tastes bitter, but unrefrigerated fish can be putrid and dangerous.
    syn: sickening, malodorous, rotten  ant: fresh

13. revere (rë vûr’) verb to regard with respect, awe, and adoration
    The cult members were aghast when the man they revered as a messiah was accused of embezzling funds.
    syn: venerate, honor  ant: revile

14. servile (sûr’ vâl) adjective submissive, slavish
    The servile wolves showed their lower status to the highest-ranking wolf by cowering before him.
    syn: subservient  ant: haughty

15. superfluous (søŏ pûr’ flôŏ os) adjective unnecessary; excessive
    He made many unimportant and superfluous remarks to cover his nervousness.
    syn: extra, needless  ant: essential

Exercise I — Words in Context

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

- efficacious  superfluous  desiccated  catharsis  intrinsic

A. Bob’s ________ beliefs were so superficial that it appeared as though he experienced a(n) ________ each time he encountered a new philosophy.

B. When writing short stories, Kafka eliminated ________ words and ideas.

C. He questioned whether fruit that had been ________ was as ________ for one’s health as fresh fruit.

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

- kudos  maxim  acme  apocryphal  revere

D. The stories of monsters and sea serpents are most likely ________. The Loch Ness Monster myth sits at the ________ of these legends, but Scotland’s residents ________ their “Nessie.”
E. The __________ that all good things come to those who wait was proven when the underdogs won the championship, to the loud, screaming __________ of their fans.

From the words below, supply the words needed to complete the sentences.

| servile | ineffable | inundated | putrid | dissipate |

F. After the death of his children, Lincoln suffered a(n) __________ sadness which did not __________ until his death.

G. Guards served the __________ gruel to the prisoners, despite being __________ with invective because of the taste.

H. The commoner approached the king like a __________ dog.

Exercise II — Inferences

Choose the answer that best suits the situation.

1. What is not an intrinsic fear?
   - A. falling from a height
   - B. losing money
   - C. snakes
   - D. the dark

2. A person who has a cathartic experience, __________
   - A. is pleased by it.
   - B. never forgets it.
   - C. cannot remember.
   - D. finds it sad.

3. an apocryphal headline:
   - A. Operation Performed on Newborn
   - B. Man Lives to 120
   - C. Life Began in Oceans
   - D. UFO’s Stole My Baby

Exercise III—Analogies

Complete the analogy by choosing the most appropriate word.

1. denizen : populace ::
   - A. group : committee
   - B. letter : alphabet
   - C. shark : reef
   - D. bank : account

2. enigma : solution ::
   - A. conundrum : paradox
   - B. mystery : detective
   - C. dilemma : problem
   - D. puzzle : answer

3. hackneyed : commonplace ::
   - A. clichéd : everyday
   - B. trite : rare
   - C. ridiculous : incredulous
   - D. dangerous : wearisome
Exercise IV—Reading Comprehension

Read the selection and answer the questions.

The authority of government, even such as I am willing to submit to,—for I will cheerfully obey those who know and can do better than I, and in many things even those who neither know nor can do so well,—is still an impure one: to be strictly just, it must have the sanction and consent of the governed. It can have no pure right over my person and property but what I concede to it. The progress from an absolute to a limited monarchy, from a limited monarchy to a democracy, is a progress toward a true respect for the individual. Is a democracy, such as we know it, the last improvement possible in government? Is it not possible to take a step further towards recognizing and organizing the rights of man? There will never be a really free and enlightened State, until the State comes to recognize the individual as a higher and independent power, from which all its own power and authority are derived, and treats him accordingly. I please myself with imagining a State at last which can afford to be just to all men, and to treat the individual with respect as a neighbor; which even would not think it inconsistent with its own repose, if a few were to live aloof from it, not meddling with it, nor embraced by it, who fulfilled all the duties of neighbors and fellow-men. A state which bore this kind of fruit, and suffered it to drop off as fast as it ripened, would prepare the way for a still more perfect and glorious State, which also I have imagined, but not yet anywhere seen.

Henry David Thoreau

1. The main idea of this passage is
   A. a man is more important than the State.
   B. a State with truly free men cannot be found yet.
   C. democracy follows dictatorship.
   D. a utopian society is the ultimate goal.
   E. government is impure.

2. Thoreau states or implies that
   A. free governments progress toward individual freedom.
   B. he gives the government its authority.
   C. he will obey laws made by intelligent individuals.
   D. governments as he would like them are not in existence.
   E. all the above are correct.

3. The word “fruit” means
   A. food we consume.
   B. governments.
   C. free individuals and freedom itself.
   D. respect by the state for individual citizens.
   E. a law-making government.

4. One might infer from this passage that Thoreau
   A. would welcome a utopia.
   B. would serve in the military.
   C. pays taxes.
   D. holds commonly held beliefs.
   E. feels democracy is the best citizens can