Pre-ReadingAnalyzing Publisher's Clues*Objective: Using clues given by the publisher to learn about the bookActivity

A publisher uses the title, cover design, and readers' comments to entice customers to become interested enough in the book to purchase it. The following worksheet will help you explore these features of Angela's Ashes. Working individually, fill in your responses. You may use a dictionary.

1. What clues are revealed by the title and subtitle?

2. What is a memoir? How does it differ from an autobiography?

3. Now that you know the difference between autobiography and memoir, what do you expect to read in this book?

4. Study the cover photograph for a moment or two. Form an overall impression of the photograph, and then examine individual parts of it. Based on your observations, list three things you might infer from this photo.

5. What questions does this photograph raise in your mind?

Chapters 1 – 18Narrative Voice and Audience

Objective: Understanding the attitude and voice of the narrator in relationship to audience

Activity

This is a two-part activity.

1. Assume that you and your friends have just attended a school-sponsored trip to a famous science museum. The trip included an overnight stay at a hotel. Compose a brief note about your experience for each of the following:
 - your science teacher
 - the parent/teacher organization that paid for the trip
 - your best friend who cancelled at the last minute because of the flu.
2. Throughout the novel, McCourt's narrative voice changes as he moves through different stages of his life. As you read each chapter, note how the age of the narrator affects his attitude and tone. The first line (for acknowledgments) has been completed to give you an example of what is expected.

Chapter 3Images*Objective: Reflecting on images used by McCourt's fatherActivity

Malachy McCourt loved telling stories, and his son Frankie loved hearing them. Two of Malachy McCourt's most memorable stories surface in Chapter 3: Italy and the Angel on the Seventh Step. Working in small groups, read each story and reflect on the image presented. Together, fill in the appropriate answers for each story.

Chapter 4

Research

Objective: Updating information regarding the Roman Catholic Church

Activity

The one, holy, catholic, and apostolic Roman Catholic Church described in Angela's Ashes bears little if any resemblance to Catholicism in the United States today. Research current Roman Catholic teaching in the United States regarding the following topics that are covered in Chapter 4:

- Approved catechism or religion books used in preparation for First Communion and First Confession
- Bread used for Communion
- Manner of receiving Communion
- Use of Latin
- Language used in local communities
- Mystical Body of Christ
- Sin
- Grace

For your research, use a minimum of four sources. Only two may be from the Internet. You may interview priests or religion teachers.

Chapter 6Creative Writing

Objective: Using clues given in Chapter 6 to evaluate McCourt's school and his teachers

Activity

You are very familiar with report cards that evaluate students. Working in small groups, use your experience and understanding of evaluations to devise a report card for Leamy's National School. Use your imagination in deciding what to evaluate and how to rank the school. Some topics you might consider covering are teachers, building, equipment, hygiene, and morale.

Chapter 9Marketing

Objective: Exploring ways to market English work to Irish workers

Activity

In Chapter 9, McCourt describes English agents who are in Limerick trying to recruit Irish workers to come to England for work. Assume that you are one of the English agents. You ask your boss for some marketing help. Your boss responds by agreeing to an advertising campaign either in the local newspaper or on the radio. Working in groups, devise a marketing plan that could be effective. Create the radio or print ads and present them to the rest of the class. Use your imaginations but make sure the campaign is consistent with the time and the place of Angela's Ashes.
