Activity I: Map IdentificationPre-Reading

The events in Number the Stars take place in Northern Europe during the German occupation. Though the story takes place only in Denmark, it is important to understand where the surrounding countries are located in relation to this country, as many are mentioned throughout. Remember, the threat of German occupation did not reach only these neighboring countries, but it also affected many others with its widespread carnage.

On the following MAP OF NORTHERN EUROPE, identify the following seven countries:

Denmark	Finland	Germany	Norway	Poland	Sweden	Netherlands

MAP OF NORTHERN EUROPE

Next, using an encyclopedia or the Internet, determine which countries were occupied by Germany during World War II, and which were not. Identify these countries by coloring those that were occupied red, and those not occupied blue. Then, discuss possible escape routes Jewish citizens may have taken from Denmark to reach an unoccupied country and freedom.

Activity II: Identifying ThemePre-Reading

Before reading Lois Lowry's Number the Stars, take a moment to consider the following two writing prompts. These prompts deal with fear and hiding—two concepts that help develop the overall theme of the story. Choose the prompt to which you feel you can reply best and compose a one page, three-paragraph response. After writing a rough draft, proofread and revise your paper for mistakes and organization before writing a final copy.

- Imagine what it would be like to live in isolated hiding. What everyday necessities would you have to give up? How would this affect your relationships with friends and family?
- Imagine what it would be like to live in constant fear, where at any moment you could be taken away and forced to change your life forever. How would your everyday routine be affected? Would you be able to live your life to the extent that you are living it now? Explain.

Use the WRITING PROCESS GUIDELINES to format your response.

Determine the definition of the words in bold type by using clues in the given sentences. If you are still stuck, refer to the pages as noted and try reading the paragraph as a whole for a clearer context. The first one has been done for you as an example.

Activity II: Characterization Chapters 1–3

Different authors reveal their characters' personalities in different ways. Some authors reveal descriptions on the surface, while others suggest a personality trait less openly through a character's thoughts or actions. Sometimes the way a character is viewed by another also lends credibility to his or her nature.

Chapters one and two of Number the Stars offer valuable insight into the personalities of the three young girls: Annemarie, Ellen, and Kirsti. Specific passages reveal evidence that provide clues to who they really are and how they act. In the following CHARACTERIZATION CHARTS, list as many character traits as you can about each of these characters as revealed in the first two chapters. Next to the trait, record the passage and page number that led you to this conclusion. The first one has been done for you as an example.

CHARACTERIZATION CHART FOR ANNEMARIE

Trait	Passage and Page Number
outgoing	“ We have to practice for the athletic meet on Friday... ” (Pg. 1)

Activity I: Postcard from TivoliChapters 4–5

Tivoli Gardens is a famous amusement park located in the very heart of Copenhagen, Denmark. Founded by Georg Carstensen, the park opened in 1843, with a variety of attractions. From the very beginning, people could entertain themselves at Tivoli's various restaurants, bandstands, flower gardens, parades, and amusement rides. Fireworks were often set-off after dark over a beautiful lake. Tivoli Gardens even has its own musical orchestra and pantomime acts.

During World War II, however, some of Tivoli Gardens was burned down by the Nazis in an attempt to dampen the Danish peoples' spirits. Despite this temporary setback, Tivoli Gardens has gone on to inspire the likes of amusement parks around the world, including Disneyland. While young Kirsti has never experienced its carousel, fireworks, and bright lights, Annemarie has. Her parents had taken her there several times as a child.

Put yourself in Annemarie's place, and imagine you are spending a fun-filled weekend at Tivoli Gardens as she did when she was a child. Write a postcard letter from Annemarie's point of view, addressed to Uncle Henrik, telling him about the wonderful time you are having. You may wish to mention the food, entertainment, and amusements that highlighted the experience. No postcard is complete without an illustration, however. On the front side of the postcard, be sure to sketch a memorable moment at Tivoli Gardens. Use the FRIENDLY LETTER MODEL to help you format your message correctly.

Activity II: Cross-Cultural ConflictChapters 4–5

“They didn’t understand the words or the meaning, but they could feel what a special time it was for the Rosens.” (Pg. 33)

Conflict arises where there is a clash of ideas or disagreement. Many instances of conflict arise throughout Number the Stars, though one of the most prevalent is the conflict of identity. The Jewish citizens, who are being persecuted in what came to be known as the Holocaust, suffered the greatest personal conflict of all. While the Jews are being taken from their homes and sent to various relocation camps, they are not only losing their lives and their families, but they are also losing their identities. It is because of their beliefs and religious practices that they are being persecuted in the first place. The Jews are denied everything they have been brought up to believe.

In chapter four, Ellen explains the Jewish New Year to young Kristi who cannot understand why she does not celebrate it at the same time, too. We also learn that both Annemarie and Kirsti have been invited to the Rosens’ home to witness the lighting of the Sabbath candles and hear a Hebrew prayer. Annemarie and Kirsti are not familiar with these customs because they come from a nationality and background with beliefs different from those of the Rosens.

In groups of three, research the Jewish way of life; list as many ideas, practices, beliefs, terms, traditions, and holidays of Jewish culture that you come across and give a brief description of each. See who can create the longest list in your class. If you are having trouble getting started, try identifying the following terms: Yom Kippur, Rosh Hashanah, Pesach, Judaism, and Anti-Semitism.

Activity I: Setting Chapters 6-7

Number the Stars begins in the streets of Copenhagen and carries the reader by train to the outskirts of the sea along the Danish coast. The Johansen family and Ellen are protected in the shelter and sanctity of Henrik's house by the sea, which offers peace and tranquility, contrasted with the dangers posed by the occupied Copenhagen district.

Using the following VENN DIAGRAM FOR SETTING, compare and contrast the two main settings of the story. In the right circle, describe the setting of Copenhagen from the opening chapters of the story. How does the narrator describe this setting visually? In the left circle, describe the setting of Gilleleje where Uncle Henrik lives. How is it different from the description of Copenhagen? Where the two circles overlap, list any similarities that both settings share together. Refer to the novel as often as you would like. Then, when you are finished, use the information you have collected in your Venn diagram to answer the questions that follow.
